

FEATURE/ALPINE SKIING-WORLD

Nepal Team Want Skis And Respect

No money for new skis was forthcoming from the Nepal Ski Association, said the team's coach Richard Morley.

Richard Morley, the British coach of the Nepal ski team, a businessman and former skier

Author Reuters

Photo: Reuters

TEXT

The Newest Articles

Lizeroux powers to World Cup slalom success

Herbst wins Alta Badia slalom

Season over for French star Grange

Herbst takes Levi slalom honours

Palanders Olympic dream over, considers retirement

Published: February 06, 2009 08:06h

Sports

MOST READ

THE NEWEST

Angola knew Cabinda matches risky

Angola knew for years that staging Africa's premier football tournament in the restive...

Togo team ready to leave Angola

Angolan authorities and the CAF were said to be in talks with Togolese officials in a...

Lizeroux powers to World Cup slalom success

Lizeroux clocked just the 12th fastest time in the morning run, but set a blistering 55.53sec...

Cilic retains Chennai Open title

The second-seeded Cilic became the first player after Spanish veteran Carlos Moya to win...

Photogalleries

MOST VIEWED

THE NEWEST

Top Ten Most Beautiful Women in Sports

Amanda Knox spends first night behind bars

Downtown Zagreb - Tkalceva Street

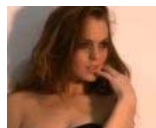

Biljana Plavsic in Belgrade

Javno.TV

MOST VIEWED

THE NEWEST

Lindsay Lohan on Shoot for Elle

Woman Drags Child on Leash Like a Dog

Complete Makeover of Susan Boyle

Islamisation Or Europe: Reality Or Fantasy?

ADS

Fagerhøy Fjellstue Norway

Cosy mountain hotel in Hallingdal 150 km cross country tracks
www.fagerhoy.no

Utah Ski Packages

Lodging Accommodations Reserve Now
800-328-4993
www.EndlessTurns.com

Ski Kicking Horse Resort

Luxury ski in boutique lodge, onsite restaurant/bar & hottub.
www.copperhorselodge.com

Snowcat Powder Skiing

The Best Day of Skiing of your Life Today. Nelson, British Columbia
www.SkiWildhorse.com

Ads by Google

Nepal has two giant slalom racers raring to go at the world Alpine ski championships -- all they need now are some skis.

When they arrived at the world championships, Shyam Dhakal and Subas Khatri discovered that their skis did not meet the requirements imposed by the International Ski Federation (FIS) for the competition.

No money for new skis was forthcoming from the Nepal Ski Association, said the team's coach Richard Morley, so the Himalayan nation's first appearance at the world championships now depended on charity.

"A local shop offered to lend us some skis but we're not sure they will be legal. It's very frustrating when you see that some of the guys from leading ski countries just use their training skis a couple of times and just throw them away," Morley told Reuters.

Morley, a British businessman and former skier, launched the Nepal Alpine skiing team a decade ago at the request of the then ruler King Birendra.

MOUNTAIN BOYS

With a bit of time and money, Dhakal and Khatri, who must go through qualifying to get places in next Friday's giant slalom race, could earn the respect of fellow skiers, Morley said.

"They are mountain boys with as much guts, commitment and potential as mountain boys from Switzerland or Austria. They just need the training facilities."

The 56-year-old Englishman first gave Nepal a taste of international ski racing when he took his adopted son Jayaram Khadka to the 2002 Salt Lake City Olympics to compete in Nordic skiing events.

Jayaram's adoption had made headlines when it was repeatedly rejected by the British government for seven years before the new Labour administration cleared it in 1997.

Since Salt Lake, Morley has started his own training camp for Nepalese skiers in Les Arcs, a resort in the same valley as Val d'Isere. He has three skiers at the camp -- Dhakal, 27, Khatri, 22, and Urtam Rayamashi, 16, who joined the team last year.

Morley is realistic that Nepal's Alpine skiers will never compete with the major nations.

"This is not the world championships, this is the First World championships. We're only here to make up the numbers," he said.

"Why don't we have our own world championships for the Third World nations? In football, you have second divisions."

SKIING POTENTIAL

Seventy-three countries are competing in Val d'Isere from this week. Under current regulations, the small nations are allowed to take part only in the giant slalom races and they are obliged to go through qualification.

"It's an unfair game. It's like having a guy walking up a mountain and the other going to the top by taxi and saying I've won," Morley said.

His racers do not have dedicated pistes to train on in Les Arcs and ski amid recreational skiers. At the world championships, they are given accommodation by the FIS only on competition day.

Morley believes that Nepal has great skiing potential but adds: "Probably not in Alpine skiing. It would be an ideal spot for Nordic skiing. A modern Nordic skiing complex, at 4,000 metres high, would be a fantastic facility for the ski world."

For now, he keeps his mobile phone to hand, hoping to get a call from a ski maker or another team offering help for next week's race.

Tags

nepal slalom racers raring alpine ski championships skis meet imposed fis competition

Related Articles

Nepal Peace At Risk, Maoists Plan Hiring Fighters
Lizeroux Austria Sign Off With Pranger Gold
Nepal Says Bans Protests Near China Embassy

Second Slalom Win For France`s
Herbst Wins Schladming Slalom

ADS

Ski-In Mountain Chalet

Sun Peaks Ski Resort, BC Book Your Winter Vacation Now
www.casajax.com/specials.htm

Circus Circus Reno Resort

Great Amenities, Packages & More. Reserve Now For Your Next Vacation!
www.CircusCircusReno.com

Ski Chalet for Rent

Catering optional. Close to pistes Serre Chevalier French Alps
www.ski-in.co.uk

Ads by Google

www.clipfish.de

Ads by Google